On the way back to the valley of Norang, a photo stop is planned at Lake Lyngstøylvatnet, which originated in a landslide that diverted the course of the river in 1908, forming this lake. Untouched nature, beautiful beaches and a rock formation shaped over the centuries by Mother Nature are what you will enjoy during this excursion around Måløy. Created in 1906 and surrounded by open sea, the lighthouse boasts numerous wind records and is located in one of the most weather-prone locations on the west coast of Norway, between Ålesund and north and Bergen to the south. After a photo stop, you will board the coach and head to Refvik beach. The mile-long white sand long beach is one of Norway's best beaches for swimming and is well worth a short stroll. What will strike you is to discover that all Refvik houses have a thick stone wall on one side to prevent them from being blown out to sea by the strong autumn storms that come down from the valley. The next destination is a true masterpiece of Mother Nature and is located in Kannestein. This 3 meter high stone sculpture shows the power of nature itself, the work of a true artist.
